We are informed by Mr. Villeneuve, M. L. A., who has looked the matter up, that since May, '95, 465 heads of families have arrived and located in the St. Albert settlement alone. These could easily represent 1,000 souls. The district is settling so rapidly that no homestead land is procurable within 18 miles north of Morinville.

DUPONT's railway survey party, which spent last summer surveying on the upper Peace, are continuing their operations this year, commencing at the Stikine river, on the coast. Dupont left Ottawa for the coast on Saturday and his camping outfit, which had been stored here, was forwarded to Vancouver on Saturday.

MISS E. PAULINE JOHNSON, poetess and entertainer, favored a small audience with one of her clever recitals in the Robertson hall on Thursday evening. The programme was a medley of selections, comic and dramatic, delightfully and imitatively rendered. Miss Johnson's work, like that of Fred. Emerson Brooks, is doubly clever in as much as the selections rendered are her own compositions.

The gold dredge "Otter" has been taken up the river a short distance and now lies just below the upper ferry. The water at present is at too low a stage to permit the dredge going further up where Mr. Hogue intended to commence operations. Immediately on the water rising the dredge will be taken up. The dredging expert, A. A. Park, has arrived from the Otago river, New Zealand, the home of gold dredging, and assumed the management of the Otter, under Mr. Hogue.

REMARKING oil boring operations on the Athabasca and Saskatchewan, Dr. Dawson, director of the geological department at Ottawa, said a few days ago that the benefit of parliament that while petroleum of commercial value has not yet been discovered in Northern Alberta he has proved the existence of large quantities of oil in Pelican and Egg lakes which justifies further effort. Boreings at these points indicate the existence of an enormous natural gas field. Mr. Fraser tested for cooking and lighting purposes with excellent results.

WM. PLACE, of Bukard, Wis., who has been looking over the Edmonton district, returns here to-morrow well pleased with the prospect. Mr. Place has bought a half section in the Riviere Qui Barre settlement and will return to Alberta in a few months, accompanied by a number of settlers from his town.

PARK and Holden, the Japanese bank robbers, escaped from the Napanee jail on the 2nd. The fugitives are now in his own door and then his chum's. Both escaped by climbing over the jail wall on a pile of cord wood. There was no night-watchman. The two men were the crown's strongest witnesses in the famous bank robbery case against Peter Ponton. Their escape is another chapter in one of the most interesting criminal cases ever tried in Canada.

The steam launch, tender of the gold dredge Otter, went down the river for coal on Saturday and on the way back, when just above the town, broke her rudder. As soon as the rudder broke the launch swung around in mid stream and struck a rock which tore a hole through her below the water line, and being led to the limit of her capacity with coal, immediately filled and sank. Fortunately at the point where she went down the water was only a few feet deep. The crew worked the greater part of the night, and after repairing the rudder and temporarily patching the hole in her side, threw all the coal—some eight or ten tons—overboard into the river. The water was then pumped out of the launch and the launch was towed a short distance where she will be drawn out of the water and the hole properly repaired.

PLAIN DEALER: E. H. Lewis, of Seattle, arrived here on Friday last to superintend construction of a big gold dredge for a Chicago syndicate. He has a gang of men already at work at Walter's dredge yards. One car of lumber for the boat is here and more are expected daily. As soon as these arrive operations will be rushed and it is hoped to have the dredge ready within a month. Mr. Lewis is a mining expert and visited the site of the dredge, making a careful examination of the river deposits. The type of dredge his company will use is that largely and very successfully used on the Snake river in Idaho, the gravel being raised by a specially designed suction pump, quite different to anything heretofore used on the Saskatchewan. The machinery will be landed here complete and experts sent along to erect it.

ROWLAND-BRUNETTE SUICIDE
Under instructions received from the attorney-general at Ottawa and Regina, the Rowland-Brunette suicide case will be re-opened by a coroner's inquest and post-mortem examination on the body of Lottie Brunette at St. Albert, to-day. The story of this double tragedy is too fresh in the public mind to need retelling. It will be remembered that the body of Lottie Brunette was found in a bluff near Edmonton on the night of Friday the 21st of April, the circumstances then tending to the belief that she, with W. P. Rowland, had committed suicide. At the first, evidence of a double suicide was so convincing that an inquest was thought unnecessary, but in a day or two, in view of further facts which had come to light, the authorities were decided to hold a post-mortem and coroner's inquest. This decision was arrived at on the 22nd April, the body of Lottie Brunette having been quietly interred at St. Albert on the preceding night. On the day of the coroner's decision he requested that the inquest be not held and the body be left undisturbed. As justice could not be furthered, both parties implicated having died, the inquest was temporarily dropped, but the whole matter was referred to the minister of justice, Ottawa. His instructions, together with those of Attorney-General Balfour, of the Territorial government, were received on Saturday, instructing that the inquest be proceeded with at once. In compliance with such instructions the following coroner's jury was empanelled to-day: W. S. Edmonston, St. Geo. Jellett, F. E. Time, S. Larue, Walter Durrant, and A. McNicol.

The jury met this afternoon for St. Albert where the body has been disinterred, and a post-mortem will be held to-day; and to-morrow afternoon the inquest and taking of the evidence of witnesses will be proceeded with at the police barracks here before Coroner Balfour and the jury.

Where will you take it?

This question often arises after you have consulted the best (not the cheapest) physician you know, and have received his prescription.

It should go to the best druggist you know—one who will use only the right kind of drugs, and will not try to fill it if he hasn't the right kind.

It should go to the druggist who will exercise the greatest care in getting the right drug, and the right quantity, and will go over his work several times to be sure he is right.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, MAY 8TH, 1899.

THE RAILWAY COMBINE.

The announcement that the application for a charter for the Kettle river railway would not be pushed at the present session of parliament is not so important as the reason assigned; namely, that the opposing forces of C. P. R. and G. T. R. have come to an agreement whereby the former withdraws opposition to some Grand Trunk scheme in consideration of the latter withdrawing its support to the Kettle River railway. The Kettle river railway was of great importance only to a part of Southern British Columbia; but the agreement to forego active competition between the Canada Pacific and Grand Trunk railways is of immense and far reaching importance to the whole of Canada. Situated as Eastern Canada is if the two great railway companies now effectively occupying that territory enter into an agreement not to oppose each other's schemes, there is not only no competition there, but there is no hope of future competition either there or in the west, as long as the agreement between these two companies holds.

Hitherto there has always been the possibility and sometimes the actual fact of effective railway competition in Eastern Canada. Now that there is no further prospect of such competition the railway question has taken on a new phase. Under the new conditions the absolute power to win any industry, commercial enterprise or investment of capital rests absolutely with the combined railway companies, with no recourse except such as may be taken to the authority of parliament represented by the government. Hitherto capital invested in one railway held capital invested in another railway in check. Or even the possibility of such a check being exercised had a salutary effect. But with the railway capital combined all other investments of capital are endangered by that combination.

A railway commission has frequently been spoken of in late years, and this combine will bring that idea more prominently forward. But the sore is deeper than a mere commission can cure. A commission might deal with discriminating rates. This is an absolute and immediate necessity. But the great evil is that the railway companies, on the plea of earning dividends on invested capital, are levying tolls to provide interest on millions of money that are not and never were represented by actual value in the railroads of the country.

Possibly what has been done in this regard cannot be undone. But there is still room and need for railway development on a large scale at least west of Lake Superior. Not a foot of new road should be allowed to be built in Canada except it is specifically provided that the public shall not be required to pay in tolls more than a fair return on the capital actually invested by the owners in the road. Every foot of railway between the Red River and the Rockies has to earn interest on bonds far beyond the actual cost of the road. This is the great evil that should be guarded against in all future railway legislation. This is not a question for a future railway commission, but is a responsibility that rests upon the present government and parliament.

SESSION NOTES.

OTTAWA, April 28, '99.

Wednesday's proceedings were of only moderate interest. A bill regarding the incorporation of benevolent societies was introduced by the minister of finance. It provided for incorporation of co-operative insurance societies according to certain regulations, without a special act.

McAllister, conservative, called attention to a number of items appearing in New Brunswick papers mentioning the departure of Canadians to the States. The minister of interior replied by suggesting that the "despatches were prepared for the political market," and read from a former issue of the Mail-Enterprise that "The exodus is a matter of history."

Moore, conservative, moved for a reduction in the duty on coal oil. Beattie, Clancy, Wallace and Sproule, conservatives, opposed the reduction, also Fraser, liberal; Davin, conservative; and Rogers, patron; McMullen, Flint, Fortin, Davis Oliver and Richardson, liberals, supported. The ministers of finance and inland revenue desired the adjustment of the debate which was agreed to without a division.

McInnis, liberal, moved the second reading of a bill respecting the naturalization of aliens. The present procedure was altogether too loose and a great deal of fraud was practiced. The bill would require persons applying for naturalization to come before a judge.

Monk and Davin, conservatives, Hon. Sir Louis Davies, liberal, opposed. At the suggestion of the premier the motion for second reading was adjourned.

A bill has been introduced by Mr. Davin to further amend the amendment made to the mounted police pension act of last session, whereby a constable became entitled to a pension after 20 years service, instead of not until after 25 years. Mr. Davin held that that amendment was not operative as yet and that a further amendment was needed. His suggestion is that:

"The pension to a constable on retirement shall be according to the following scale:

(a) If he has completed ten but less than sixteen years' service, an annual sum equal to one-fiftieth of his annual pay for every completed year of service;

(b) If he has completed sixteen but less than twenty years' service, an annual sum equal to twenty-fiftieths of his annual pay, with an addition of two-fiftieths of his annual pay for every completed year of service above sixteen years;

(c) If he has completed twenty years' service, an annual sum equal to thirty-fiftieths of his annual pay, with an addition of one-fiftieth of his annual pay for every completed year of service above twenty years, so, however, that the pension shall not exceed two-thirds of his annual pay at his retirement.

During Wednesday's debate on coal oil duty, Wallace, (although he opposed the proposed reduction) stated that the Standard oil company had secured full control of the Canadian oil refining business last year. This gave them absolute control of the oil industry without requiring them to purchase a single well from the Canadian owners. The well owners were compelled to sell their oil at whatever price the Standard oil people chose to give them. Before the company got control Canadian crude oil was worth $1.40 a barrel. Now it is only worth $1.12 to $1.15.

In Mr. Moore's speech he gave the freight rates charged by the Canadian railways on the product of the Standard oil company and on that of competing United States companies. In less than six months the difference was from 9c to 22c per 100 pounds. To Brockville the rates were 25c and 47c respectively per 100 pounds. He produced an affidavit from an oil merchant in Montreal stating that no Canadian refined oil could be purchased except from the Standard oil company operating in Canada under the name of the Imperial oil company. This company had closed up some of the Canadian oil refineries, demolished others and were operating only some of the remaining ones.

A feature of Thursday's proceedings was the slaughter, without a vote, of Mr. Bostock's bill to require railway companies to issue passes to members of parliament. In moving the second reading he said there was a feeling that members of parliament in accepting passes from railway companies were placed under obligations to those companies who expected something in return. By making the issue of passes compulsory this feeling would be dispelled.

Sir Chas. Tupper attacked the proposition fiercely. It would make the house a laughing stock. It was an interference with private property and rights. The acceptance of a pass by a member did not place him under obligations to the railway company. The proceedings of the railway committee were evidence that the acceptance of passes by members did not influence them in the discharge of their duties.

Rogers, patron, said that possibly members were not influenced by these favors, but the impression in the country was that they were. People thought it unjust that members should travel on passes and draw mileage, as well. Either passes should be abolished or made compulsory.

Ives, conservative, thought the agitation against railway passes had been buried with the patron organization when the object of that association had been attained by placing the liberals in power. The bill was communitarian in principle. It would be as reasonable to compel the railways to carry freight free for the members.

Robertson, independent conservative, supported the bill. Some of the members did not accept passes, because they felt that such acceptance implied an obligation which they did

The values we are able to offer is due to the fact that we buy for cash and in very large quantities. You get the benefit of our cash discounts and our large purchases.

Our stock of Dress Goods from the ordinary common to the very choicest Silks, is well worth looking through.

The Sea Island Silk Lining is the fabric you have been looking for. A waist lined with it will hold its shape for all time. It has been universally adopted by tailors who charge a big price for costumes because of the perfect fit it always ensures.

Our Blouse Silks are as pretty a lot as you could see in Toronto. They are marvels of shade and pattern.

We have an unusually fine range of Ladies' Overskirts—ready to wear—and a large variety of Underwear, Blouse Waists, Gloves, Belts, Collars, Ties, etc.

For our Dress Goods department we recently imported a large line of the newest American Dress Linings, Sea Island Silks, Commadore Fabrics, etc. etc.

We have just opened out another twenty cases of fine
